

At head•stock, our primary focus is to act as a conduit between corporate and community cultures through thoughtful, non-adversarial and respectful exchanges of information.

Our principals have 35 years' experience in resource exploration and production, with specific expertise in Aboriginal and industry stakeholder relations.

We have managed, developed and executed successful stakeholder strategies for contentious, multi-billion dollar projects involving significant environmental and political sensitivities.

Core Services

Project Support - Stakeholder engagement

- strategic planning – produce comprehensive external stakeholder engagement plans & communications material; prepare technical teams and managers to deliver non-technical project messages
- tactical execution – deliver, monitor, assess & amend stakeholder plans as a project team member

Liaison Services - Industry & Aboriginal inter-relations

- corporate / community policy development & strategic planning
- community & industry engagement
- staff & team development

Writing & Editing

- reports, manuals, proposals, web text & profiles